DRAG PINE LAKE FOR BODIES OF THREE VICTIMS

Pittsburgh Men Perish When Boat Capsizes At 11:30 A. M. Friday

FIREMEN, DEPUTIES JOIN IN SEARCHES

Fight In Boat Said By Witnesses To Have Caused Accident

Dragging of Pine lake, 14 miles east of Salem, was being continued today in an effort to recover bodies of three Pittsburgh men drowned there yesterday when their boat capsized when they were reported to have begun fishing during a fishing and alleged drinking party.

Searchers, however held out little hope for recovery of the bodies until they come to the surface in four or six days. Dragging of the lake is difficult, they reported, because of underbrush and stumps in the lake bed.

Mahoning county firemen and deputy sheriffs joined in the search for the men's bodies. They dragged the lake until late last night then renewed the search at daylight today.

The three victims, all Negroes, were tentatively identified last night by Emerson Roy of Pittsburgh as his brother, George Roy, 28; William Thomas, 30; and Matt Mickey, 60.

The three men arrived at Pine Lake yesterday in an automobile bearing license No. 5709-N and rented a boat. They anchored the boat in the north end of the lake about 1,000 feet from shore.

About 11:30 a. m., Fred Culler, former mayor of Washingtonville, and R. W. Bosten, also of Washingtonville, who were fishing from another boat, noticed the men drinking and tussling in the boat.

"We were afraid they would go over if they kept it up," said Culler, "and we were afraid that if we interfered, they might take us over with them. So we rowed ashore."

Culler said they planned to notify Martin Costello, caretaker of the lake for the Ohio Water Service Co., and as they neared the shore, the other boat turned over and the three men went under.

I. O. O. F. Members To Attend Service

In celebration of the 114th anniversary of the founding of the order of Odd Fellowship, Amity lodge No. 124, I. O. O. F., and its allied orders will attend the Sunday morning service at the Christian church at 10:30.

Members of the Ladies auxiliary, Patriarchs Militant, will appear in uniform. Damascus Odd Fellows will also attend this service.

The pastor, Rev. C. F. Evans, will preach on "The Ministry of Friendship."

Fearing that the desire for economy in other things might make us forget old man Daylight, Marjorie White, screen beauty, gives us this reminder that we pick up this reminder hour of Summertime on the morning of April 30, at two o'clock. So now you've been warned and there's no excuse if you find yourself behind the times.

TWO ARRESTED IN IOWA RIOT

State Militia Called To Quell Disorder; Makes Arrests Today

(By Associated Press)
LE MARS, IOWA, April 29—The state militia called to quell farm disturbances today arrested two farmers alleged to have been involved in the dragging of Judge Charles C. Bradley of Le Mars from his bench to threaten him with hanging on Thursday.

The men arrested were John Kunkel and T. K. Ernst, farmers living near Le Mars. They were arrested early today by militiamen and taken to the armory, where four companies of the Iowa National guard were quartered.

Col. Green Haynes, commander of the military unit, said today he would send one private and two officers to each town in Plymouth county to inform them officially of the governor's proclamation declaring martial law in the county.

Col. Haynes said he expected his men to cooperate fully with local authorities.

The Warrenton post of the American Legion passed a resolution last night condemning the recent action of the farmers.

Hughes to Check On Forestry Names

LISBON, April 29—Names of those who will be ordered to enter for Camp Knox, Ky., to enter reforestation work, will not be announced here until after all applications examined here last week by District Supervisor H. H. Hughes are checked over again early next week.

Examination was had here of applicants residing in all townships, cities and villages in the county outside of East Liverpool, Liverpool township, St. Clair township, Wellsville and Yellow Creek township. Over 300 applicants were interviewed here by Hughes and E. M. Lowery, secretary of the County Relief Commission.

Jail Break Pays Chicago Suspect

CHICAGO, April 29—A jail break paid Fred Hora a $30 dividend. Arrested as a bank robber suspect and later fined $50 on a disorderly conduct charge, he escaped and went out to raise the money to pay his fine. Failing, he returned. Another judge heard his story and cut the fine to $10.

Daylight Savings Time Starts Sunday; Fix Train Schedule

A new train schedule, effecting outgoing westbound mail, was announced today to be effective in Salem Sunday when one-third of the population of the United States sets clocks ahead one hour in conformance with daylight saving time.

New Train Added
Among the most important changes effected by the daylight schedule of Pennsylvania railroad trains is the addition of a new, Cleveland-bound train to the list of passenger carriers stopping off in this city. The train, No. 323, arrives here at 9:29 p. m. daily.

C. H. Wolfe, Salem Pennsy agent, also announced that train No. 649, now arriving here at 7:18 p. m., starting Sunday will stop in the city at 6:03 p. m. It is a local to Alliance, daily except Sunday. Train No. 648, halting here now at 8:18 a. m., after tomorrow arrives in Salem

CONFERENCE OF MINERS FAILS

Mining Interests Unable To Reach Agreement; Called by White

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, April 29—Unable to agree, the conference of Ohio coal miners and operators, has broken up, it was learned from a reliable source here today.

Bituminous miners and operators were called into conference by Governor George White in an effort to work out a new agreement to replace the one expiring May 17.

For the first time in more than a decade, both sides agreed to meet over the conference table. The negotiations continued for several weeks, but late yesterday, it was learned, the meeting broke up without reaching any conclusions.

High officials in the state government who acted as observers at the conference, are understood to have reported to the chief executive last night that an agreement could not be reached.

The present agreement calls for a wage of $32.5 a day for laborers and 38 cents a ton for loaders.

It was signed last September after seven months of strife in the mine fields of Athens and Harrison counties during which several persons were killed and the governor finally sent the state militia into the field to maintain order.

Horticulture Unit Will Meet Tuesday

The Columbiana county Horticultural unit will hold a meeting at 8 p. m. Tuesday at the Fairfield township centralized school.

Officers will be elected at this session. A talk on "Spraying" will be given by a representative from the experiment station.

W. H. Matthews, Salem, is president of the unit. L. J. Kirk is secretary-treasurer.

Fay Vallee and "Phantom Wife" Ready for Heart Balm Battle

Crooner's Estranged Wife to Fight $100,000 Suit for Alienation of Adagio Dancer's Affections by Mate Whose Existence He Can't Recall.

KATHLEEN SMYTHE

GARY LEON FAY WEBB VALLEE RUDY VALLEE

It is all very strange, and at first had all the earmarks of a publicity stunt, but with the filing of a $100,000 alienation of affections suit against her, Mrs. Fay Webb Vallee, estranged wife of Crooner Rudy Vallee, is back in the news columns after she had left them—and Rudy—to live happily ever after in her Santa Monica, Cal., home.

The plaintiff in the suit, filed in the New York Supreme Court, is Mrs. Garfield Leon, nee Kathleen Smythe, an actress, who charges that Mrs. Vallee did "willfully and maliciously" gain the affections of Gary Leon, vaudeville adagio dancer, her husband.

It was long enough to tell the world that he has no wife, hence the mystery. Mrs. Vallee, exhorting by her dad, Police Chief Clarence Webb, of Santa Monica returned an indignant denial of the charges, asserting she will fight to "the last ditch" and characterizing the suit as "preposterous and ridiculous, but amusing." Meanwhile, Rudy, the hubby she left behind her, refuses to comment. He goes about his sax-toting and soulful crooning as of yore, returning neither a year nor a day to all questions pertaining to his estranged "Girl of My Vagabond Dreams."

According to reports at the time of the Vallee's last parting, Rudy is to pay Fay $100 a week, pending a final settlement of their marital affairs, which, say the gossips, will be in Reno. But Rudy and Fay emphatically deny any intention of taking their troubles to the divorce court.

Frost Gives Talk At V. F. W. Event

L. A. Frost, commander of Allen Reynolds post No. 892, Veteran of Foreign Wars, gave a short address on the life of Gen. U. S. Grant, when Gold Star auxiliary of this post observed Americanization day with a special program Thursday evening at the hall, Vine ave.

Rev. C. P. Evans, pastor of the Christian church, gave the invocation. The program included the colors by members of the auxiliary; pledge to the flag by the assembly; address by Esta Stoffer, president of the auxiliary; selections by the Baptist church orchestra; story of the battle of Concord and Lexington and "Paul Revere's Ride" by Frederick Schuller; xylophone solos, "Gypsy Love Song" and "The Rosary" by Deane Smith, with Dorothy McConnell at the piano; History of the Star Spangled Banner, Bert Lesch, post commander; "I Am Proud I Am An American," J. A. Nicholson, and Fred Snyder, post commanders; song, John Candel, who played his own accompaniment on the guitar; song, "Star Spangled Banner," prayer, Janet Mathey, chaplain.

Spring Work Topic At Goshen Grange

Questions pertaining to spring work both in the home and yard were discussed informally at a meeting of Goshen grange Friday evening at the hall, northwest of the city.

Women officials of the grange will be in charge of a meeting in two weeks.

300 Great Schoolboy Stars Gather at Salem Field For Annual Carnival

SALEM TO DEFEND THIRICE-WON TITLE

21 Invading Squads Seek To Wrest Crown From Quaker Citizens

An assemblage of more than 300 great schoolboy stars, ready for a determined onslaught on the thrice-won championship title of Salem High, this afternoon was gathered at Reilly stadium for preliminary events of the fourth annual Salem night relay carnival.

Favorable Weather Forecast
Better weather could hardly be demanded than that which the state's forecasters predicted would greet the athletes for both preliminaries and finals. Aided by the balmy temperatures, athletes are expected to create new records in several events.

The preliminary events were slated to start at 2:30 with finals being scheduled at 7:30.

Athletes of 22 schools, including Salem High as defending champion, were to compete in the carnival, one of the few nocturnal events of its kind planned throughout the nation this year. A large audience of spectators, attracted by the display of schoolboy talent already entered, is expected to attend finals tonight.

Salem Faces Battle

Salem High, weakened by the graduation of several stars of a year ago and minus any dependable replacements, will face a stiff fight, according to dopesters, in their stand for a fourth consecutive championship. Fine representations are entered from two Cleveland schools, Buchtel, North and South, are also looked on as threats.

Other competitors for the championship will be East Palestine, Alliance and Steubenville while consideration must also be given Boardman, Canton McKinley, Dayton, Pa., Columbiana, Leetsburg, Leontonia, Lisbon, Poland, Schriber, Tallmadge, Warren, Wellsville and Youngstown Rayen.

SALEM GRANGE TO HONOR YATES

Member For 50 Years To Be Given Award At May Meeting

John W. Yates, member of Salem grange for more than 50 years, will be presented a golden sheath award, given by the national unit in recognition for this service, at the May meeting of Columbiana county Pomona grange at Willow Grove grange, North Georgetown hall.

Yates, a past master of Salem grange, has been active in grange work and has filled most all the offices in the subordinate grange.

This program was given at a meeting of Salem grange Friday evening at the hall, Depot rd.

Roll call, "Which has helped you more—the lessons you have learned from others or lessons from your own experiences?"; talk, "Should House to House Selling be Encouraged or Prohibited? Why?"; H. W. Zimmerman; "Should Not the Schools of Ohio Devote at Least 30 Minutes to the Study of Agriculture Each Day?"; William Satterthwaite; humorous paper, "Salem Grange Lightning"; Esther Vincent; songs by the grange.

The national grange has set aside Sunday, May 21, for church attendance. The members of each grange are asked to attend in a body some church on that Sunday. Salem grange has appointed a committee to make arrangements to attend church that day.

Mother's day will be observed at a meeting in two weeks.

R. F. McLain Will Give Address Here

Raymond F. McLain, state Sunday school worker, will give the address at a young people's rally at 6 p. m. next Thursday at the Christian church.

The rally is sponsored by the young people of the local church and it is for young people of Christian churches in this district.

Supper will be served at 6:30, followed by a program. Students of the Salem High school will give a play. The worship service will be conducted by young people of the Salem church. There will be special music.

Getting Places

DES MOINES, Ia., April 28—Now this aviation is getting somewhere. Traveling east to do a broadcast, on a Democratic president on President's Day evening, Am on one of the new Boeing ships, two-motored (not three), ten-passenger. And it really has speed for a big ship, cruises 180.

You see all our advancement in speed has been made with small single-motored ships. But now they are all out to cut down the flying time at least a third.

And by the way, the old railroad could grab off many a new customer if they would knock a third off their schedules, which they could do.

There never was such a demand for speed, for less reason. There is not a one of us that couldn't walk where we are going, and then get there earlier than we have any business.

Yours,
Will Rogers

Sunday school 9:45 (Mark 10:1-31) Paul Wilms, Supt.

"Standards of living change from time to time. There is a shifting from one level to another. In some places and individuals, there is the lowering of the standards of living. It goes without dispute that where the Gospel of Jesus Christ is known and followed out, that principles of living are placed upon a higher level. Jesus cared not if old ideas were discarded if the new ones were better and nobler. The outgrowth of Christianity was at hand. The power of Christianity is the mightiest force today that we have to make life and living better here upon earth. Strange it is that there are some indifferent to its appeal and not ready to give Christ the credit."

Morning Worship 11. Sermon: "Love for Christ."

"That Christ loved and loves the world, is a fact that His life and word substantiate. They prove it. He placed upon the altar of sacrifice, the most precious possession. His life. It was the life of the Son of God. Now love for Christ by all people is a different affair. We are not so sure about that."

"In fact, there is so much evidence that such is not the truth, that we feel sure that all people do not love Christ. At least, their actions and life do not suggest it. It may be easy to love mankind whom we may see in their misery and their appealing condition. The unseen Christ may seem difficult to love. It should not be so. Christians must love the Master."

Faces Deportation

One of the few men who ever escaped from Devil's Island, French penal colony, Amato Desiderio, better known as Pierre Dupres, is here shown after he was taken into custody at San Francisco, Cal., as an undesirable alien. Dupres, whose escape from the penal settlement on a raft and his rescue after 44 days of horror makes one of the most dramatic stories of jail breaks, has been at liberty for 25 years.

OHIO SLAYERS DIE IN CHAIR

Two Go Calmly to Death
At Columbus; Executed
For Police Slaying

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, April 28.—Accepting their fate without qualms, Tony Rotunno, 31, and Ralph Aterholt, 23, died in the electric chair at the Ohio penitentiary last night for the slaying of a Newton Falls policeman.

The executions were carried out shortly after sundown, both men walking to the death room unaided and apparently anxious to have the ordeal over. Rotunno, the first to die, was accompanied to the chamber by Father Albert O'Brien, the Catholic chaplain at the prison.

For a moment, Rotunno watched the guards strap him into the chair. Then he murmured a prayer which continued until the black mask dropped over his face. The current was applied at 8:04 p. m. He was pronounced dead at 8:16.

His body was removed to one of two hearse waiting just outside the little execution chamber. While guards still fumbled at the chair straps, Aterholt entered, the Rev. K. E. Wall, Protestant chaplain, at his side.

Aterholt, showing no emotion glanced at the witnesses and then walked quickly to the chair. He sat silently as the guards adjusted the straps, apparently oblivious of a prayer being read by Mr. Wall who stood in front of him, death came at 8:25.

Rotunno and Aterholt paid the supreme penalty for the slaying of Merchant Policeman Scott Vassbinder, father of four children. The officer was shot when he engaged Rotunno, Aterholt and Owen Hunter in a gun battle during a robbery at Newton Falls last July 5. Aterholt was wounded.

Hunter later was injured fatally at Warren in a fight in which two policemen were wounded. Before he died he named Aterholt and Rotunno as the slayers of Vassbinder and the two were arrested in Sharon, Pa., their former home.

One of the wounded officers, Sergeant J. O. Heinlen, was among the forty persons who witnessed the executions.

"First Lady" and Ishbel Kindred Spirits

White House Hostess and Daughter of British Premier Alike in Many Ways. B. Tireless Workers for Human Betterment—Both Simple—Friendly—Democratic.

Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt and Miss Ishbel MacDonald Addressing Labor Meeting.

In the wife of our President, her hostess in Washington, Miss Ishbel MacDonald, daughter of the visiting British Premier, found a fellow-spirit whose progress in life has been charted along a course almost parallel with her own. Spiritually, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Miss MacDonald might have been cast in the same mold, for they are identical in temperament and pursuits. Both have spent many years working for the betterment of the human race; both abhor idleness in any form and both reveal the same simplicity in dress and manner. Mrs. Roosevelt's activities in social and welfare fields are too well known to go into here. But Miss MacDonald's career is not so familiar to Americans. At an early age, the Premier's daughter shouldered the responsibility of serving as her father's official hostess at 10 Downing Street, the London residence of British Premiers. In this capacity she greeted royalty and statesmen from every country in the world, acquiring herself life a veteran. In her spare moments, she went about the country in the interests of the score or so of welfare organizations in which she is interested; pursued her duties as a member of the London County Council and played angel of mercy to dozens of baby clinics. Her activities do not end here. She has stumped for her father in his election campaigns and is credited with having won for him a large portion of the feminine support that is his. Miss MacDonald has been asked to run for Parliament on many occasions, but she refused, although it is fairly certain she would have been elected. She does not drink or smoke, not because she disapproves of women doing those things, but because she has never felt the urge.

THE HOME KITCHEN

Exotic Dishes of Old Egypt

There is charm in foods that have their origin in far away lands, foods that are exotic, palate provoking, different. Knowing that so many of my readers have enjoyed serving the various foreign dishes that have appeared in this column from time to time, I asked an Egyptian beauty specialist to give me some recipes for foods that were served to famous beauties of the Nile years ago and have come down through the centuries. Here, then is Sakel's Egyptian menu with some interesting recipes. All the equipment that is needed is a skewer or spit. The lamb must be a good cut, the vegetables fresh.

Chicken and rice soup.

Laham Meeshway.
Biklaw.
Stewed Syrian figs.
Turkish coffee.

The soup can be ordinary chicken consommé with rice. The Laham Meeshway, or Shereh Kebab in Turkish, is leg of lamb diced and broiled on a spit or skewer. For a really authentic flavor, put a slice of lamb on the spit, then a slice of onion, followed by a slice of tomato, repeating with the meat again. This is Laham Meeshway a la Sultan. For a really authentic dish, serve the lamb with as many vegetables as possible. Take summer squash, scoop out center, stuff with seasoned bits of lamb and rice, cut into squares and steam. To prepare eggplant, called in Egyptian Manafish, in the native manner, peel a small eggplant, slice and fry in butter. Cover bottom of a baking dish with slices of eggplant, follow with a layer of chopped meat, pine nuts (which are like India nuts) and onions which have been fried separately. Follow with another layer of eggplant. Dot top with slices of tomato and butter and bake.

To serve cauliflower in the native manner, fry in butter and mix with meat and onions that have been fried separately. The same with okra except for the addition of tomatoes. Beans and spinach are prepared as we do them. The rice and noodles should be fried in rich butter, first the rice. Use noodles, the fine, small kind that have first been boiled in salted water. Then fry both rice and noodles together. All of the vegetables should be served with the Laham Meeshway.

Egyptian Dessert—Biklaw.
For our authentic Egyptian dessert, we'll start with the Biklaw. The success of this delectable sweet treat depends upon the crispness of the dough. Make a regular flaky pie dough. Chill so that it can be cut into paper thin slices. Place fifteen layers of the dough in a baking dish, then add a filling made of chopped green pistachio nuts mixed with butter and honey. Cover this filling with another fifteen layers of the dough and bake.

To stew the figs, stew in a little water with sugar and aniseeds. Then add pine nuts. To prepare the Turkish coffee, the coffee must be very finely pulverized. Use one teaspoon of coffee for every demi-tasse. Bring to a boiling point and allow to cool until a white film forms on top. To sweeten and give an exotic flavoring, put in a half-teaspoon of rosewater for every four cups.

ISALY'S QUALITY ICE CREAM

THE CHALLENGE OF LOVE

by WARWICK DEEPING

SYNOPSIS

Dr. John Wolfe, young and capable assistant of the inefficient old Dr. Montague Threadgold, is shocked at the pollution he finds everywhere in the little town of Navestock. The young doctor's greatest obstacle in trying to better conditions is the bitter resentment of the people themselves. The affable Threadgold appears more interested in humoring his patients and fattening his purse than he is in curing their ills. He cautions Wolfe against using necessary "expensive" medicines when the "ordinary" preparations will do. Wolfe would be tempted to give up if it were not for lovely, young Jess Mascall, whose sincerity and courageous outlook are an incentive to keep fighting. Filled with curiosity as to how Wolfe finds his time, Mrs. Threadgold searches his room and finds a map he has prepared showing Navestock's polluted areas. She informs her husband of what she calls Wolfe's "gross disloyalty and underhand spying" and suggests that her husband either make him discontinue his researches or discharge him. Jasper Turrell, the brewer, whose enmity Wolfe had incurred for complaining of the condition of the former's property, calls on the Rev. Robert Flemming. The genial rector is indifferent to Turrell's ranting about Wolfe. The clergyman cares little for Turrell, accepting him as part of Navestock. Flemming had long ago learned to take evil as a part of life. Fleming wonders what type of man Wolfe is. He has the opportunity to meet him at the bedside of a dying woman. The clergyman is strangely moved by the capability and personality of the younger man. Wolfe gives him food for thought with the statement that places are responsible for certain deaths. Jess, day-dreaming of Wolfe on the moor, is brought back to reality by the intrusion of Edith Wilks. Jess resents her cat's remarks about Wolfe and retaliates by criticizing one of Edith's friends.

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

Miss Wilks's nose was elevated above the level of such humor. "You are not at all funny, Jess." "I'm only standing Mr. Chipper-ton up beside Mr. Wolfe. Now I think of it, he does look like a bent nail. I like Mr. Wolfe. That's a fact." She turned over on her side, and stared at her companion with a frank challenge in her eyes. "Oh, I see." "What do you see?" "Nothing; nothing worth mentioning." Jess laughed. "Don't look like a hen on an egg, Edith." "Oh, indeed!" "I must say, 'Ssh—ssh,' and see you chuck and fluff up your feathers. I'd just love to roll you in the heather. I'd just love it." She sat up with threatening restlessness. Miss Wilks stiffened and seemed to grow narrower, and a little nervous. "Don't be foolish I think I ought to be going. Mother asked me to be back in good time." "You'll stay and have tea?" "I'm sorry, but I can't. You will come on Thursday?" "Yes, I will come." And Miss Wilks rose to go. Jess did not attempt to hinder her. She walked back with Edith Wilks to Moor Farm, but left her to cross the paddock alone. Jess stood at the corner of the holly hedge, and though her eyes glimmered, they were not empty of anger.

Finally she went into tea, throwing 'Ivanhoe' into a chair. The long low room was full of pleasant shadows and of the warm smell of summer. Mary Mascall had had the gate-leg table set by the open window. She sat there, placidly busy, a handsome presence that radiated cheerfulness and energy. Mary Mascall made her farming pay. The men worked for her as they would have worked for few masters.

"Where's Edith, dear?" "Jess had a serious face. "She wouldn't stay. And Billy did not want her."

"Billy?" "You see her legs annoyed him. Billy's a dear."

Mother and daughter smiled at each other. But Jess was still serious. Her eyes fixed the sugar bowl, and studied it with dark gravity. "What kind of a man is Mr. Wilks, Mother?"

"Zachary Wilks, my dear? A mean little man, so I have always heard. Most of the Navestock folks have their faults that way. They are bad farmers down yonder, so far as property is concerned."

"How?" "If you don't put good food into your beasts, rich stuff into your ground, your farming's mere foolery. All the world knows that. And yet here are these Navestock folks dragging all they can out in 'ent, and putting nothing back so long as they can help it. House property's like any other kind of property. It isn't all take and no give. But it's been like that in Navestock for these fifty years."

"But it's a shame, isn't it?" "Landlords are queer folk, my dear. There are not many like Lord Blackwater, and it's a pity the Brundons and the Turrells and the Wilkses don't learn of him. Why, even old Josh Crabbe, the atheist, knows better than to let his places rot, just for the sake of a few years' greed. I wouldn't be under a Navestock landlord, not I. Lord Blackwater's a man and a gentleman. He does not want his people to live like pigs."

Jess stirred her tea, and watched the bubbles that went round and round. She understood suddenly that a man of John Wolfe's build might make himself hated in such a town as Navestock. Jess had all the woman's quickness in leaping at conclusions. It was the opening for her of that most fascinating of books, the book of "Things as they are."

Wolfe walked into Dr. Threadgold's study, and stood with one hand gripping the edge of the door. "I wish you would come and look at this preparation under the microscope, sir."

A figure that was looting in an arm-chair, uncrossed its legs, and sat up with a great rustling of paper. Threadgold had been dozing with the daily paper over his head. "What, Mr. Wolfe, what?" "I have something under the microscope that I should like you to see."

They went into the surgery where Wolfe had the microscope arranged on a deal table by the window. Threadgold cocked up his coat-tails and sat down, curling his legs round the stool. He took off his spectacles, put his left eye to the eyepiece, closing his right eye with something of the look of a raw recruit squinting for a sight along the barrel of his rifle. There was silence for a while. Wolfe watching the little man at the table, and noticing the lines of fat above his collar and the way his thin hair was raked carefully across the crown. He felt a kind of pity for Threadgold and it was this same pity that was prompting him to open the man's eyes, and to insist upon his realizing what might happen in Navestock.

"A great deal of movement down here, Mr. Wolfe."

"Yes plenty of life." "Pond-water?" "No, well-water." "Dear me, indeed!" "From Paradise Place."

"Ah!" "That was a case of diphtheria that I was called in to see this morning."

Threadgold straightened himself on the stool, pulled out a silk handkerchief, and began to polish his spectacles. Both men were conscious of a feeling of tension, but Wolfe was the first to speak.

"I am glad of this opportunity to mention a matter that has long been on my mind. I have not spoken of it before, because I wanted to make sure of my facts."

Threadgold still had his back to Wolfe. He was putting on his spectacles, and Wolfe saw his ears reddening very perceptibly.

"Well, Mr. Wolfe, what is it?" "With regard to the sanitary condition of the town, I happened to be interested in this class of work before I came here. Navestock is rotten."

Threadgold left the stool, but stood staring out of the window. Wolfe closed the line of retreat towards the door. Moreover, some overmastering moral force held the elder man like a child in a corner. His first impulse had been to bluster himself free of the interview, and refuse to have the incursion of this terrible young man's thoroughness thrust upon his shoulders.

"Indeed, sir? That is rather a bold statement."

"It is a serious one." "Do you realize that you have not been very long in the town?" "Six months. I should like to show you the result of my researches."

Threadgold fidgeted with his hands in his trouser pockets. An acute self-consciousness held him by the throat. He could not bring himself to turn and meet Wolfe's eyes.

"You need not be in such a hurry, sir. I do not know that I asked you to include sanitary inspection among your duties."

"I am sorry, but it became the logical consequence."

"You mean—?" "One was driven to look for causes when one had seen the effects."

"I do not see how you could be driven Mr. Wolfe. An assistant never bears the full responsibility." "I feel that I am responsible—even in your interests."

Threadgold tossed his coat-tails with absurd yet pathetic pretence. He looked like an agitated bird.

"Very well, Mr. Wolfe, very well. I will look over all this material of yours. But I may as well tell you that young men fresh from academic work do not understand the realities of general practice. We have a different stock here and different conditions, and these conditions have prevailed for centuries. Theorists are very dangerous people. They are apt to think that the game of life can be played like a game of chess."

Wolfe smoothed his chin, and stared hard at the back of Threadgold's head. "I wonder what the rate of mortality has been here during the last hundred years."

"I cannot tell you. We have no figures."

"Have you ever had cholera in Navestock, sir?" "No, we have not."

"Or typhoid fever?" "No."

"Well, God grant that neither of them should ever come."

A wasp might have stung the elder man upon one of the pink creases at the back of his neck. He turned sharply, breathing hard, his fists doubled up in his pockets.

Approximately 115 persons were in attendance, members of the cantons and auxiliaries.

This function was arranged by committees from the three cantons which make up the battalion. Those on the Salem committee were: Major B. B. Burnett, Captain L. S. Strawn, Mrs. Strawn, Captain P. L. Graber, Mrs. Graber and Mrs. J. L. Goodwin.

Has Outstanding Record Few Odd Fellows, many in the state, have a record that will surpass the one made by Davis.

Initiated into Amity lodge on Jan. 19, 1905, he was installed as noble grand of this lodge in January 1907. In August, 1908, he was elected treasurer of Amity lodge and has held this office ever since.

Elected district representative to the grand lodge in December, 1913, he was installed in office at Dayton in June, 1914 and served, what was then District 26, now 27, for a period of four years.

For one year Davis was treasurer of the grand lodge, having been installed in June, 1918, at Portsmouth. During his term the grand lodge purchased its fine 300 acre farm.

On March 25, 1909, he was initiated into Goodwill encampment No. 111, and in 1914 was installed as chief patriarch. He was re-elected to the office of representative to the grand encampment and has been successively elected to this position for two year periods ever since. He will represent this district in the grand encampment at New Philadelphia next July.

Mastered in as a chevalier in Canton Salem No. 2, in 1914 he was appointed an aidecamp on the staff of Brig. Gen. W. A. Eberly, then commanding the second brigade.

Class A Softball League Foes Clash In Opening Tilts Monday

THE DAY IN SPORTS

IT HELPS BUSINESS

WHEN CATCHER DICKEY of the Yankees slugged Outfielder Reynolds of the Senators last year the protests against his bad sportsmanship rose immediately and lingered long—even longer than Dickey remained suspended. But this year when Left Fielder Chapman of the Yankees and Second Baseman Myer of the Senators strike the blows which start a free-for-all among Washington fans and players of both teams there are few protests—and they won't linger long.

It's all in the point of view, and the current point of view was inspired a few weeks ago by the official pronouncement of a high official of baseball. This gentleman suggested that baseball wouldn't suffer if some of the players weren't quite so gentlemanly. Nothing rowdy or coarse, understand, but plenty of fight and ginger. The fans love fighters—men who play hard.

Furthermore, the fans eat up grudge fights, which is what baseball games between the Yankees and Senators promise to be from now on. In the old days when baseball was getting a healthy growth the afternoon was wasted unless fists were swung and dire threats uttered. It was crude sport and no one wanted to subscribe to anything so brutal, but if there were some way to brighten up the modern game—if—

The Yankees and Senators have found a way. Sincere or not, they have succeeded in bringing back that suggestion of mortal combat which convinces the baseball fan he is getting more than his money's worth. Far from being threatened by an occasional flailing fist and a moused eye, baseball expects to profit by a revival of modified rowdiness.

JOHN MCGRAW, ranking among baseball's most famed personages, wanted his players to be rough and tough and hard-boiled, men who would ask no quarter and who could be depended upon not to give any. He wanted a baseball attitude, players with an eternal chip on their shoulders, no fraternizing—his men weren't even allowed to speak to those on rival teams—and color, color, color.

All the old-time managers were of similar temperament—you had to be able to handle your fists just as you had to be an extra-good ball player in those old days. Younger fans today agree with older ones that a little more fight injected into the game will help considerably to arouse further interest in baseball. Rowdiness in its crudest form is out but nevertheless one likes to recall those old days of Ty Cobb's gleaming spikes, Charley Schmidt's fast-traveling fist, an occasional splash of tobacco on an umpire's shiny shoes—arguments aplenty.

They were the good old days. WILL WESLEY FERRELL, be able to win 20 or more games for the Cleveland Indians this year? During his first four years in the American league Ferrell has annual ly turned the trick, setting a new major league record in that respect. Can he make it five in a row? In four seasons he has tallied 91 victories, an average of almost 23 per campaign.

For two years Ferrell has been bothered with a bad arm. In his first two seasons he was a fast ball pitcher almost exclusively. Since he suffered arm trouble, he went to a sweeping curve and a change of pace to turn in victories. With his new style pitching he has been just as successful but the lack of that sizzling fast ball, has taken away much of his color as a drawing card. In his first game of the season against St. Louis, Ferrell hurt his arm in the seventh inning and was forced to retire. Sent to the Cripple Clinic in Cleveland, he recently underwent examination. It is believed the seat of his trouble has been uncovered and that within a few weeks Ferrell will again show fans the fast ball that made him famous.

Fans all over Ohio are as much interested in the condition of Ferrell as those in the old home town. Pulling for the Indians to get someone where in the race this year the fans here and elsewhere, realize that unless Ferrell regains old time form, the Indians are going to be seriously handicapped as a possible pennant contender.

Manager Peckinpaugh of the Indians is the authority for the statement, that in his mail during the past week, there were something like 500 requests from out of town Cleveland fans, that Ferrell be worked in the Sunday game against Chicago.

While Peck would like to definitely say that Ferrell would be the pitcher, it is against his policy to change his pitching rotation to pick a spot. He is hopeful that the regular rotation will bring Ferrell against Chicago on Sunday, April 30 so far from can judge for themselves the exact condition of the star's arm. Peck believes he is as good as ever and may win 25 games this year.

SIGAFOOS LEADS IN ASSOCIATION HITTING BATTLE

Indianapolis Infielder Is Far In Front With Average of .460

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, April 28.—Hammering the ball at an ambitious clip, Frank Sigafos, Indianapolis second baseman, has set the pace for American Association batters during the first three weeks of the season.

The former Detroit and Cincinnati infielder had a rousing 460 average, according to figures which include Thursday's games, and led in three individual departments. He had made 23 hits including eight doubles, good for 33 bases. Andy Cohen of Minneapolis, held the runnerup position with a .417 mark. Joe Hauser had driven in the most runs, 14, while Buck Stanton of Milwaukee, led the home run hitters with three. Burgess Whitehead, due to go from Columbus to the St. Louis Cardinals, topped the field in triples with three. Joe Mowry of Minneapolis, leading scorer in 1932, was tied with Hal Anderson of Columbus, at 11 runs each.

Anderson had stolen two bases and was tied for the lead with Bud Connolly and Eddie Grimes of Milwaukee; Herman Layne of Louisville, and Lawrence Rosenthal of St. Paul.

Following Sigafos and Cohen in the individual list were: Max West, Toledo, .404; Mowry, Minneapolis, .391; Irv Jeffries, St. Paul, .390; Jimmy Adair, Louisville, .380; Clyde Beck, St. Paul, .357; Anderson, Columbus, .354; Foster Ganzel, Minneapolis, .353, and Bill Sweeney, Toledo, .350.

Lou Pette, Kansas City, and Jess Petty, Minneapolis, topped the pitchers with three straight victories. Monte Pearson of Toledo, had fanned 17 batters in five games, while Charlie Wood of Kansas City, and Fred Blake of Columbus, had issued 15 walks each.

Toledo held the team batting lead with an average of .295, two points higher than Minneapolis. The Millers led in team fielding with .974, two points better than St. Paul. Toledo's collection of 15 doubleplays also was good for a leadership.

Giant Boss Laid Low

No sir, Bill Terry, manager of the New York Giants, is not sliding home. He is taking the count after being struck by a pitched ball in the fifth inning of the game against Brooklyn Dodgers at New York Polo Grounds. The Giants gained a 4-0 victory, but they'll have to get along without their manager and first baseman for the next month. For the X-ray revealed that Terry's arm was broken.

Keller Races High Hurdles in 14.3 to Create New Record

BY ALAN GOULD

Associated Press Sports Editor

PHILADELPHIA, April 29.—The record books of the 39th Pennsylvania relay carnival today blazoned the names of two triple winners and record-smashers—lean, blond Jack Keller of Ohio State, hurling ace, and lanky, black-haired Joe McCluskey of Fordham, the "Iron Duke" of college distance runners.

Set New Records
Despite anything even closely resembling keen competition in their specialties, Keller and McCluskey, or the third successive year registered sensational opening-day victories in record time.

Keller raced over the 120-yard high hurdles in the startling time of 14.3 seconds, fastest ever clocked on an eastern track and only a tenth short of the world record. McCluskey, setting his own pace all the way, won the 3,000-meter steeplechase in a class by himself as a steep-chaser.

It's no longer news when a high hurdler "breaks" 15 seconds but it is testimony to Keller's remarkable speed that the Ohio State flier is the only hurdler in 34 years of Penn relay history to better this mark more than once. He has been under it every time out for three years, in an event which has featured the world's greatest timber tappers since 1889, including Frank Manhattan college, a fast growing power in the track and field world, made its first major victory in the Penn carnival a record-smasher in the distance medley relay. The Manhattan quartet negotiated the 3,000-meter steeplechase in 14 seconds for a new carnival and American record.

Other outstanding winners yesterday included: Pennsylvania, in the 440-yard college championship, with N. Y. U. second and Ohio State third; Mercersburg academy, victor in the interscholastic 440-yard relay in 42.5 seconds, for a new carnival record; Eugene Beatty, Michigan Normal Negro, in the 400-meter hurdles, for the third straight year; and Mont Pleasant High, Schenectady, N. Y., in the interscholastic medley relay.

White Sox Sent Connolly To Minors; INTRODUCING THE INDIANS Makes Comeback With Cleveland Club

GEORGE CONNOLLY, "Sarge" to you, is the oldest member if the Indians.... Spent six years with the Chicago White Sox and then was released to the Toledo club of the American Association.... Was bought by Cleveland at the close of the 1931 season.... Has served nobly in the role of a relief pitcher.... Is advertised as the rubber-armed man of baseball.... Has more deliveries than the American Express.... His pet one is to throw his left leg in the air just before delivering the ball.... It is very deceiving and many times the batter feels as though he is hitting at Connolly's foot.... He is just as liable to throw a submarine ball as an overhand delivery.... Has always been a pretty good hitter when the baseball is needed.... Last year he had a record of eight wins and six losses but pitched in a great many more games.... His arm seems to be in better condition than over before this season.... Hopes to win twelve games in 1933.... Is one of the Fan Tan fiends and very seldom loses.... Gets his nickname "Sarge" from the rank that he held in the army.... Was over where the bullets flew thick too.... Pulled through without getting his pitching arm nicked though.... Is another of the Texas delegation on the team, living in McGregor, Texas.... Once while with Chicago went in to relieve against the Yankees without even warming up.... The bases were filled but he quickly retired the side.... Some of the players call him "Cuckoo" and insist that he was once a left-hander, but Sarge emphatically denies that.... After being let loose by the White Sox he starred in the Texas league and American Association.... Cleve-

SENATORS TAKE YANKEES; TRIBE TRIMS CHICAGO

American League Squads Find Selves; Ruth Clouts Home Run

Two American League ball clubs appear to have "found" themselves after a shaky start. They are the Washington Senators, and Bucky Harris' promising Detroit Tigers.

Both fared badly in the first ten days of the campaign, then turned about and in the past week have climbed rapidly, each winning five out of six games. The only other club to do as well, the New York Giants, progressed to the National lead, winning five consecutive games.

Senators Upset Yankees

By turning back the New York Yankees, 4-3 yesterday in a mild ten-inning game that furnished a sharp contrast to the furious fistic encounter Tuesday, the Senators made it three victories over the champions in four games and maintained their tie with Cleveland for third place.

Babe Ruth and Bill Dickey kept the game from being an easy Senator victory by hitting home runs that tied the score. The Babe's, his fourth of the season, came with one on.

Detroit was lucky to get its fourth victory of the week over the St. Louis Browns by a 5-3 count. Cleveland walloped the Chicago White Sox, 5 to 1, behind the steady pitching of Sarge Connally. Athletics scoring six runs in the third inning, beat out the Red Sox 9 to 8.

Pirates Beat Cards

In the National Pittsburgh climbed back into a virtual tie for first place with the Giants. The Bucs beat the Cardinals 2 to 0 by placing two hits neatly behind a couple of walks.

The Cincinnati Reds blasted Lon Warneke from the slab with six runs in the eighth inning and defeated the Chicago Cubs 6 to 1. It was the Reds' fourth victory in five games, their third straight over the Cubs and the second time Red Lucas had beaten Warneke. The Braves defeated the Phillies 5 to 2.

The Giants and Brooklyn had an open date.

Committee Named To Award Varsity Letters at Lisbon

Lisbon High school has introduced a new plan to be used in the presentation of varsity letters in athletics and other activities.

Charles Pike, chairman of student council, appointed John Bowman, George Riddle and Clyde Vanaman to devise the qualifications which the student must meet before he is presented the L.

The council believes that some seasons the letters are easier to obtain than other years. If certain requirements are needed to receive a letter it will mean the same amount of work every year.

The Student Council has made it possible for the students to have a soft-ball league. Each class is represented by a team.

The first game was played at the fairground last Tuesday after school. Sophomores won over the Seniors by a score of 16-12.

This activity has aroused much enthusiasm among the students and it is hoped that this activity shall be carried out through the coming years.

Capital Athlete Honored

"Berea Boots", for 16 years the aim of every Capital university athlete, are being received by "Able" Schiff, right, the outstanding junior three sport man, from Paul Davidson, senior holder, left, who has won letters in five sports during his four years at the Columbus institution.

The boots were obtained by "Cade" Clover, a former Capital student, in the Berea old fields in 1914.

In 1917, the tradition was started to annually choose the outstanding junior athlete to whom the boots should be given. These are emblematic of the highest award any Capital athlete can ever attain.

Schiff is the 16th recipient of the boots and the second successive Columbus boy to have them as Davidson is also a resident of Ohio's Capital city.

A former "Berea Boots" holder is Coach "Bill" Bernlohr, director of Capital athletics, who won wide acclaim several years ago when he received the boots after having won letters in four varsity sports.

Schulte, in fact, fattened his average by more than 40 points in the seven days ended yesterday and jumped from fifth place to first. In six games he connected for eleven hits out of 24 times at bat and hoisted his average up to .412. Foxh hit safely ten times as did West. Foxh advanced from fourth place to second while West held third.

Frederick, who was clouting .538 a week ago, dropped off to .462. But still held a wide edge as other National leaguers shifted positions rapidly. The Brooklyn part-time crick, had five hits in 13 times at bat to show for his week's work. Dick Bartell of the Phillies, who was not even in the first ten a week ago, put on a great spurt to climb into second place at .432.

Hen Hailed Into Court For Trial

DETROIT, April 29.—Mrs. Emily Wittman told Judge Christopher Stein she found one of her hens in a neighbor's possession. She offered to prove the hen knew her. So Biddy went to court.
Released from her basket, Biddy ignored Wittman. Instead she retired to a corner and nonchalantly laid an egg, which the court immediately claimed. The case was adjourned for a week.

FOREIGNERS DEPARTING

TOO MUCH MEDDLING

—By Arthur Brisbane—

(Copyright, 1933 By King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

HEARST RANCH, San Simeon, Cal.—The foreigners are departing. Mr. MacDonald left with a high opinion of President Roosevelt; quite satisfied with the result of his mission.

Monier Herriot returns to France "with a clear understanding of President Roosevelt's views on war debts, political security for Europe and economic disarmament." The Americans have no such clear understanding and will be glad when their turn comes to be enlightened.

It has not been explained to them why they should be in any way responsible for "political security for Europe."

They remember well the last time they were made responsible for that security, providing 3,000,000 men and many billions of dollars, and hope that will not happen again soon. Why should we be expected to stop them?

THE SENATE has voted to let the President accept $200,000,000 in silver, in settlement of Europe's war debts to take the silver at 50 cents an ounce, or 400,000,000 ounces of silver in payment of $200,000,000 debts. Lucky, if we get it.

The idea is not new. Two years ago, in the White House President Hoover informed the writer that England would be allowed to pay one-half in silver at 50 cents per ounce. Half England's annual payment would be $80,000,000 or 160,000,000 ounces.

Your government tells you, bring in any gold you have, above $100 by May 1, or you may pay $10,000 fine, go to jail, or both.

Mr. Borah, in the Senate, says "As far as I am concerned, if I had $5,000 in gold, I'd tell the government to go to hell." In the Record he modified it to read: "I'd defy the government to come and get it." Many Americans would let the original statement stand.

NORMAN H. DAVIS, "ambassador without portfolio" at the league of nations meetings, is not an ambassador without opinions.

Germany says she wants restoration of equality in arms and all national defense within five years. Mr. Davis says: "I am uneasy at the turn this discussion has taken. The world has suffered too much from an excess of nationalism."

This part of the world has suffered too much from meddling in Europe's affairs and wishes that might cease.

JAPANESE troops, pressing ahead while pacifists talk and rebuke, are within 60 miles of Peiping, ancient capital of China.

A cable from Peiping tells you "the way for the Japanese attack was paved by bombs dropped from eight Japanese planes."

When Charles the Twelfth of Sweden was cutting through Russia with a handful of men, defying the vast armies of Peter the Great, the latter said, "My brother Charles is teaching me about war."

Our brother, the mikado, is teaching us about war, as it is to be fought in future, and American "observers" with the Japanese army would be more useful than observers at Geneva.

UNCLE SAM has lost an island. It stood, formerly, at the mouth of Cook inlet, 160 miles south of Anchorage, Alaska, and was 20 miles long, about five miles broad, with an extinct volcano for ornament.

This piece of property, called Augustine island, is supposed to have disappeared, following a series of more than 100 violent earthquake shocks, possibly carrying down with it several trappers.

Experts report to Washington that in violent earthquakes the earth moves up and down, as well as sideways. It is believed that study of earth movements will make possible absolutely safe anti-earthquake construction.

MEDFORD, Ore.—With the advent of legal beer, Ed Brown, old-time saloon keeper here now pool-room operator, gave to his friends his supply of bottled beer as souvenirs of the dry era.

Economy Delegate

An excellent close-up of the Right Honorable Richard B. Bennett, Prime Minister of Canada, as he arrived at New York en route to Washington, to participate in the series of economic parleys now in progress at Washington. Premier Bennett is expected to discuss tariff problems with President Roosevelt with a view to facilitating trade between the U. S. and Canada.

Lord Hope's Unlucky Diamond Goes Back on the Auction Block

Trail of Misfortune Left by Jinxed Gem, Now Offered for Sale by Mrs. Evalyn McLean, Led from Central Asia to America.

Mrs. EDWARD McLEAN, MAY YOHE

Although Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean, Washington society matron, hopes to raise $250,000 by the sale of her famous Hope diamond, it is probable that a very great many people would refuse to accept the ill-starred gem were it offered to them for the sum of a thin dime. For the great diamond has an evil reputation, which has followed it down the years since the time it was brought out of Central Asia in the 17th century up to the present. The gem first came into prominence when Louis XIV of France gave it to his wife as a bribe to induce her to close her eyes to his philanderings with Madame Du Barry. The curse asserted itself and France was forced to sign the humiliating Treaty of Paris that deprived the Empire of India and Canada. Lost for two centuries, the stone reappeared in England, when Lord Francis Hope presented it to his American actress bride, May Yohe, for a wedding present. When the nobleman later divorced his lady, the diamond was blamed. When last heard of May Yohe was scrubbing floors in Chicago, a poverty-stricken broken woman. Lord Hope sold the diamond to Habib Bey, an Oriental nobleman, who was drowned, and the stone became the property of Prince Kantivski, who was assassinated. Edward B. McLean bought the diamond in 1910 for the wife from whom he is now estranged. Eight years after it came into the family, Vinson Walsh McLean, the eldest child of the couple, was killed by an automobile on the one occasion when he eluded the small army of guardians who watched over him. Thereafter things went from bad to worse, the huge McLean fortune shrunk, marital discord arose and the McLeans were legally separated.

"Cavalcade", Ranked Among Greatest Talking Dramas, Coming Here Sunday

REGARDED as the finest picture of the year—"Cavalcade" heads the list of films scheduled at the State theater this week.

Called the 1933 version of "The Birth of a Nation" and said by all critics alike to be undeniably perfect in its cast, its direction and its excellent photography, "Cavalcade" is certainly the picture of the year.

Other Films Coming

The production will play three days starting Sunday. . . . Bette Davis is cast in her first starring role in "Ex-Lady" coming to the State Wednesday and Thursday. . . . She will be supported by Gene Raymond, blonde lad of "Zoo in Budapest" playing today at the theater; Frank McHugh, likable comedian; Monroe Owsley, last seen here in "The Keyhole"; Claire Dodd and Kay Strozy.

Then the fastest speaking man of them all—Lee Tracy will be seen in "Clear All Wires" at the State Friday and Saturday along with the return engagement, by popular demand, of "Min and Bill" starring that lovable duo—Marie Dressler and Wallace Berry.

Tracy is once more cast in the role most suited to him, that of a newspaperman. . . . He is supported by a most noted cast which includes Benita Hume, a newcomer to the screen; Una Merkel, she of the drawl and giggle; James Gleason always good for laughs; C. Henry Gordon and Alan Edwards.

"Min and Bill" Return
Those of you who saw "Min and Bill" in its first showing here probably have not forgotten it.

It was one of the most popular pictures of its time and little wonder when one considers that besides two such stars as Marie Dressler and Wallace Berry it has also in its cast little Dorothy Jordan, Marjorie Rambeau, Donald Dillaway, DeWitt Jennings and Russell Hopton.

As to the merits of "Cavalcade" little can be said that has not already been published. . . . There seems to be no fault what-so-ever to find with any part of it.

As for its cast—one has but to glance over these names and be satisfied—Clive Brook; Diana Wynyard, who for her marvelous work in this film as June Marryot has won the acclaim of Noel Coward, its noted author, and countless critics; Ursula Jeans, Herbert Mundin, the comic Englishman; Una O'Connor, last seen here in "Pleasure Cruise"; Beryl Mercer, Margaret Lindsay, Frank Atkinson, Stuart Hall, John Warburton and Merle Tottenham.

The week seems to be a notable one at least as far as movie attraction is concerned.

Today the State theater shows "Zoo in Budapest" with Gene Raymond and Loretta Young as its stars. . . . As an added attraction Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy are to be seen in their latest comedy, "Twice Two" and that alone is enough to guarantee entertainment.

Another chapter of the serial, "The Last of the Mohicans" will be shown at the State this afternoon.

GRANTS PASS, Ore.—A huge mammoth tree in the hills near here may be the clue to buried gold obtained in a stage coach robbery years ago. The date 1890, the year of the robbery, is carved on the trunk, with the initials MLP and DBP, followed by the words "Go to Hell." The tree is located near where the robbery occurred and where the loot is supposed to be buried. All the robbers were slain by possmen.

Rainy Day Loans

WHEN that rainy day comes too soon, you can get money here to take care of your demands for money. Winter leaves a lot of unpaid bills—you can pay them and take care of any emergency with a loan. We make prompt, confidential loans on personal security. No outside signers needed—no embarrassing investigations made. We'll gladly explain all about our loaning service without obligation.
